INTEGRATING HEALTH AND PLANNING

2-day intensive course

Do you work in a planning or policy role in the North East region?

Do you want to know more about how policy and planning shapes environment and health outcomes?

Then this is the course for you!

Upper Hume and Central Hume Primary Care Partnerships, in collaboration with RMIT School of Global, Urban and Social Studies, are delighted to offer the ‘Integrating Health and Planning’ intensive course to planners across North East Victoria.

With guest lectures and discussion from Australian planning and health experts, this two-day intensive course integrates current research and practice with a focus on tackling contemporary planning challenges such as climate change, sustainability and the health and wellbeing of our regional and rural communities.

Through this course you will explore:

- Links between urban policy and planning, climate change and physical and mental health outcomes
- How current policy and legislation frameworks in Victoria and Australia link the built and lived environments to health
- Through case studies and practical exercises, how planning, design and policy can help create sustainable, healthier, age-friendly communities

When: Tuesday 16 November - Wednesday 17 November, 2021

Where: Quality Hotel Wangaratta Gateway, 29-37 Ryley St, Wangaratta

Course fees: Free for successful applicants (a saving of $1200)

INTERESTED? With limited funded places for staff across the North East region, be sure to apply soon! APPLY by filling out the application form on the next page and sending it to connect@upperhumepcp.com.au by Monday, 8 November 2021
